

A Cass County HISTORICAL SOCIETY

March 2013 marks the 100-year anniversary of the terrible flood that hit the Midwest hard causing millions of dollars of destruction, loss of life and left thousands of people homeless. Logansport, Indiana, nestled between two rivers, was one of those towns that suffered.

To commemorate this event the Cass County Historical Society is offering a new photo book.

RAIN AND RIVER – REMEMBERING THE FLOOD Of 1913 Logansport, Indiana

Preorder your copy of this soon-to-be-released photo book. The book should be available in March and the specific date will be announced.

The best of the Cass County Historical Society photo collection documenting the flood in Logansport. The story unfolds throughout the book through letters and post cards and excerpts from journals kept by people who lived through it.

- Hard bound • 92 pages filled with photos and stories • $25.00 per copy
- All proceeds benefit the Cass County Historical Society and Museum
